

Abstract

In a method for monitoring a field device connected via a databus with 5 a control unit, the control unit requests, in intervals of time, an individual identifier of the field device and compares such with a stored identifier.